DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 1, 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kim ("Kim"; U.S. Patent Number 6,681,120).

Regarding claim 1, with reference to figures 1, 3 and descriptions, Kim discloses a portable communication apparatus (100), comprising:

a communication means for making a call (column 1 line 46 to column 2 line 9, abstract) and receiving an audio signal distributed from a server by a digital wireless system (column 1, specifically lines 8-29, claims 1,11, 18-20), a recording means for recording the audio signal received by the communication means, a reproduction means for reproducing the audio signal read from the recording means, and an output means for output in accordance with the reproduced audio signal (column 1, specifically lines 8-29, claims 1,11, 18-20).

Regarding claim 3, Kim further teaches that the recording means is inserted in the portable communication apparatus in a removable manner (figures 1-2, see descriptions).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 2, 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kim ("Kim"; U.S. Patent Number 6,681,120) in view of Adams ("Adams"; U.S. Patent Number 6,594,366).

Regarding claim 2, Kim discloses the invention but does not disclose that the reproduction means is able to perform stereo reproduction of the audio signal read from the recording means, and the output means performs stereo output in response to the audio signal.

In an analogous art, Adams teaches a headset/radio auto sensing jack for use with a mobile terminal (figure 1). Adams further teaches that the reproduction means is able to perform stereo reproduction and the output means performs stereo output in response to the audio signal (figure 3, see description, see column 1 lines 43-67, column 2).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to incorporate the stereo reproduction, as taught by Adams, to the mobile entertainment and communication device of Kim, in order to provide stereophonic output for the enjoyment of the listener (attractive, easier to sell than a mono-aural output).

Regarding claim 4, Adams further teaches the output means outputs the stereo reproduced audio signal from a connection terminal to which a stereo headphone may be connected (figures 1, 3).

3. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kim ("Kim"; U.S. Patent Number 6,681,120) in view of Fong et al. ("Fong"; U.S. Patent Number 6,493,328).

Regarding claim 5, with reference to figures 1, 3 and descriptions, Kim discloses a communication means for making a call (100), comprising:

a recording means for recording audio data file received by the communication means, a reproduction means for restoring an audio signal from the audio data read from the recording means and reproducing the restored audio signal, and an output means for output in accordance with the reproduced audio signal (abstract, columns 1-3).

However, Kim does not disclose that the file is a streaming file distributed from a server by a digital wireless system.

Art Unit: 2685

In an analogous art, Fong teaches a high data active set of base stations services high data rate forward link transmissions for a mobile station. Fong further teaches the streaming of audio to the mobile radiotelephone (column 2 line 66 to column 3 line 5, column 8 lines 4-14).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to incorporate the streaming of audio, as taught by Fong, to the mobile entertainment and communication device of Kim, in order to provide high speed download and the ability to allow the user to listen to the music while its being downloaded.
